Today’s Investor Relations Officers (IROs) are indispensable advisors to the C-Suite, helping translate and communicate company goals and performance within an increasingly complex investor environment.

Top IROs have deep financial acumen, are well versed in the business, and have credible working relationships with the Street.

Korn Ferry’s Specialty Practice has placed Investor Relations Officers (IROs) at the world’s most valued organizations (across all leading indexes – Dow, NASDAQ, FTSE, etc.) and has experience placing IR leaders across all industry sectors and at different stages: from Pre-IPO, SPACs, spin offs, as well as companies undergoing transformation and resetting their investment narratives.
