Korn Ferry (together with its subsidiaries, the “Company” or “Korn Ferry”) supports fundamental principles of human rights throughout our business and in each region of the world in which we operate. Korn Ferry’s respect for the protection and preservation of human rights is guided by the principles set forth in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Korn Ferry’s commitment to human rights is embedded in the culture and values that define our Company and is reflected in our policies and actions toward our employees, contractors, vendors, clients, candidates, and communities. We focus our human rights efforts on areas most relevant to our business and operations in terms of potential human rights impacts.

We are dedicated to providing our personnel with a respectful, safe, and ethical workplace. We comply with local laws concerning employment and individuals’ rights in every country in which we operate. Building and sustaining a diverse and inclusive culture for employees at Korn Ferry is another important way in which human rights are respected at our company. We also invest in programs to engage and energize our employees, and we support and reward their career development.

In our workplaces, in our dealings with clients, business partners, and suppliers, we support:

- the elimination of discriminatory practices with respect to all aspects of employment;
- the abolition of child labor;
- the elimination of all forms of forced, bonded, and compulsory labor; and
- the avoidance of complicity in the adverse human rights impacts caused by others.

Korn Ferry’s Alertline provides our personnel, clients, and others outside of the organization with a means to report any concerns, including those related to human rights. Retaliation for raising such concerns in good faith is prohibited.

We are dedicated to corporate social responsibility and strive to uphold human rights in all our business activities. We believe that, through our actions, we are a constructive influence for human rights.
