

RETURNERS BY THE NUMBERS

Women over age 55 accounted for 17 million+ workers in the United States earlier this year—up 4% from the year before.

34%

of women who took a break between two to five years said their reentry was difficult, according to one survey.

68%

of women who paused longer than 10 years said their reentry was difficult.

69%

of returners overall felt they were back on track within a year.